LEADS CRUSADE FOR WORLD-WIDE HEALTH

Dr. Richard Strong.

A crusade of thousands of young American missionaries to preach the gospel of health and wealth over the remotest corners of the globe has been started by the $30,000,000 American International Corporation, consisting of a national combination of "big men" eager to push American capital into all parts of the world, by the selection as vice president of the medical expert, Dr. Richard P. Strong, who fought the typhus epidemic in Serbia. Dr. Strong plans to wage a world-wide campaign for sanitation and health.

Every piece of clean cloth, large enough for wiping rags, and of the proper material, free from hooks and buttons, will bring money to you if you deliver at the Gazette.

NO SECOND CHOICE AT THIS ELECTION

Last Legislature Wiped Out the Mary Ann Law.—Three Candidates Have Filed Papers for Councilman.

Although Mary Ann has been dead for one year and a number of persons who aspire to city offices at the coming election are of the opinion that she is still among the living. The last legislature repealed the second choice law and at the coming primaries the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes will be placed on the ticket. The candidates for councilman who win at the primaries will be the only ones to be voted on at the regular election. In municipal elections no independent candidates can spring up after the primaries.

Nomination papers must be filed with the clerk not later than March 1. The primaries occur March 21 and the regular election April 4.

Thus far but three candidates have filed papers for nomination for the office of councilman, Roy Cummings, John Sheridan and Fred Broege.

FLOYD DAVIS NAMED FOR BELOIT OFFICE

Local Milwaukee Road Ticket Agent To Go To Line City.—David Cunningham to C. M. & St. P. Ry.

As a reward for his faithful work as ticket clerk at the local C. M. & St. P. Ry., for the past six years, the superintendent has appointed F. L. Davis as passenger agent in Beloit to succeed C. H. Bush, who has been appointed general agent in Racine. The new position not only carries with it an increase in salary and better working conditions but is a position of prestige as the Beloit passenger office is an exclusive agency, while at this point Mr. Davis worked under a general agent. His accommodating and business-like methods of handling the passenger business of local roads here has won hundreds of friends for Mr. Davis, who, while they regret to learn that he is to leave the city, yet they are glad that the increase in business due to the interest he took in his work here has earned advancement for him.

The company was quite fortunate in securing an experienced ticket agent to fill the position that Mr. Davis holds. David J. Cunningham, who has been the night ticket clerk at the C. & N. W. for the past two years, will fill the vacancy. The change was made about the last of the month.

EVIDENCE IS GIVEN AT CLOSED HEARING

Court Holds Defendant on State's Charges for Trial After Hearing Wednesday Afternoon.

On the testimony of three witnesses, Ira Dorn, charged with keeping a disorderly house, was bound over for trial after his preliminary examination at the municipal court Wednesday afternoon. The state's case was presented by the attorneys, with the agreement of the court was March second, but it was announced in court that the trial would be held at a later date, which would be fixed a week from today.

The testimony given by Stanley Hill and Edna Wheelock, two alleged inmates, was all that was necessary to send the case to the state's hands for trial. Chief of Police P. D. Champion testified as to the general reputation of the house occupied by Dorn. The complaint was amended in that offenses were alleged on dates between January first and February twentieth. According to both Hill and the Wheelock woman, Dorn sold beer to men who frequented the place and it was his practice to call up four or five Janesville girls, whose names were given and recorded in the evidence and summon them to the house on North River street. Because of the nature of the testimony the court was cleared before the hearing began on a motion by District Attorney Dunwiddie.

Edward H. Ryan, attorney for the defense, moved to reduce the bail from one thousand dollars to two hundred dollars, and the security was signed for Dorn for that amount and he was released from custody. Both the Wheelock woman, who testified that she was divorced "a year or so ago," and Hill, were again committed to the county jail. They are awaiting sentence and are being held as witnesses for the trial of Dorn.

SATURDAY STORY HOUR AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

All the children are invited to the story hour at the public library Saturday morning at 10:30. Miss Lawrence, a student from the Wisconsin Library school, will tell the following stories: "The lad who wended to the north wind," "Twelve Wild Ducks," "The cat who walked by himself."

U. G. WAITE WRITES OF AN AUTO JOURNEY

Former Rock County Resident Now in California Tells of Delightful Trip, Riverside, California, Feb. 17, 1916.—Special correspondence.—For the first time since coming to California, I traveled by automobile from Riverside to Los Angeles and return, this trip, with its attendant pleasures, being the way in which I observed Lincoln's birthday. To be accurate, I went in a "Ford," with W. A. Scott, a former Beloit boy as driver, and his wife, as the other passenger. It is 56 miles between the two cities and over roads of oil and concrete that are ever a temptation to the man at the wheel to exceed the speed limit and to "burn up" the road at a clip that finally lands him in some justice court, where the dignity of the law is upheld and the tension on his purse strings is relaxed.

As I write this I am minded of what old Rock ever has been doing back there in the home section, the grape accounts of which, in recent numbers of the Gazette, have proven so interesting. There is a marked difference of opinion as to whether the river of southern California is a blessing or a curse. Bridges were gone, roads badly washed, fields out of view, new channels carved and bulwarks of sand thrown up by the mighty invasion of a force before which man and powerlessness, or from whose onward rush he fled in terror and dismay.

POINTS OUT EVILS
IN ACCREDITED LIST

Superintendent Cary Declares It Is Means of Contributing to University Domination in Education.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 24.—That the accredited high school list is an evil that should not exist in Wisconsin is the declaration of C. P. Cary, state superintendent of public instruction, in a statement made public today.

"No one of us should be allowed to put up the bars against the admission of students who have had four years of training in a public school, and are recommended by the principal as qualified to do college work," says Mr. Cary's statement. "No state university should be permitted to dictate even indirectly by withholding even the admission club which the course of study in public high schools should be."

"In Wisconsin we have an educational system and the university is a part of it, but it is a very disjointed system so long as the university is in an attitude of mind and was permitted to pursue a policy of dictation. The accredited list, even with the explanation given above, is an evil that ought not to exist in Wisconsin. The evil is subtle and may perhaps be ignored in view of the moribund condition of the university domination. The evil consists of this, that high schools in some instances may still take pride in the shackles that bind them to a higher institution of learning, rather than pride in being a living force for the welfare of the community."

A GOOD RULE.

Let us be cheerful without regret for the past, with contentment in the present and with strong hope for the future.

Thousands of Families Rely On This Kidney Medicine

About nine years ago the doctor had given me up saying I had kidney trouble, enlargement of the liver and stomach trouble; that there was no medicine for me that he knew of that would help me and hearing of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I bought one fifty-cent bottle which did me so much good I bought six one-dollar bottles. After taking this amount of Swamp-Root I was completely cured and have not consulted a physician since and am doing my own work every day. When I feel any of the old symptoms coming on I go back to my old friend Swamp-Root which immediately gives me relief.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. J. J. WEIDENHALER,
Grand Island, Neb.

Personally appeared before me this 8th day of October, 1915, Mrs. J. J. Weidenhaller, who subscribed to the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

PROGRAM AT ST. JOHNS
CHURCH IN MILTON
A GREAT SUCCESS

Milton, Feb. 24.—The entertainment of last Wednesday night, given by the German Lutheran church choir of Milton, assisted by the St. Paul's Lutheran choir of Janesville, was in every respect a complete success. All the singers and players did their best, and Professor Louis F. Broeger, first searator on St. Paul's parochial school showed his ability as choir director.

At the German Lutheran choir of Milton is only a short time in existence. The applause of the numerous audience assembled last night in the Milton transium was surely a great encouragement to his first appearance before the public.

The two literary societies of Milton high school met in joint session Tuesday to celebrate Washington's birthday. The students of the school wished to give hearty thanks to the members of the G. A. R. and the W. R. C., who took part in this program, for giving them such helpful talks about the organizations which they represent and which the younger generation knows so little about today. The program was:

Quotations from Washington..... School
Private Life of Washington..... School
Declaration of Independence..... Paul Holmes
The Purpose of the W. R. C. Irene Shuman
What the G. A. R. Stands For..... Ruth Sayre
Letter Written by Washington..... H. P. Clarke

COMPANY FROM STATE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 24.—Hearing on the complaint of Assemblyman Frank Weber, Milwaukee, against the Wisconsin Indemnity Exchange of Chicago was still in progress before the insurance commissioner and the industrial commission today. L. A. Tarrell of the industrial commission was on the stand all yesterday afternoon. He produced the voluminous records of the company before the commission showing that the company made slow payments to injured workmen. Mr.

Weber asks that the company be ousted from the state.

SOUTH SEA ISLANDER IN LETTERS GIVES IMPRESSION OF THE EUROPEAN FIGHTING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Suva, Fiji Islands, Feb. 23.—How the war impresses a South Sea islander, the only native Fijian who has actually been at the fighting front, is indicated in a letter received here from Chief Sekau, who was a student at Oxford university when the war broke out and who enlisted in the French Foreign legion.

"Hundreds are here," says he in his letter from the front, "and they have been years in the ranks as soldiers. It is a bad thing that some of you young Fijians are not here. The coldness of the weather is nothing when one is in a trench."

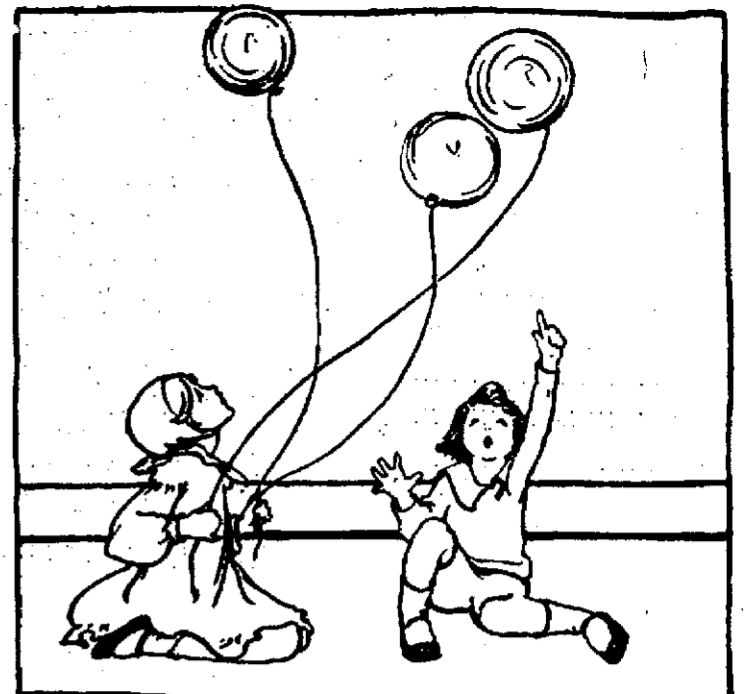

"The pits which the shells have dug all around the country look like Fijian ovens. The fighting areas are like a place that has been ravaged by a tremendous hurricane. Great trees and small scrub are all withered and fallen in all directions and broken by the shells and by the strength of the wind. The gas which they have invented in Germany. Comparatively speaking, it is sweet to read the accounts of the war, but the trail of it crushes the soul. The trail of a hurricane there you see is merely a storm. Here Degel (God) alone can comprehend it."

"One thing I smile at frequently, and that is the pity about some old men and grannies in the North when some of their houses stood alone refused to leave them. They continued to occupy their homes along with their dogs, cows, horses, and pigs. I asked a couple why they had not fled, and they answered they were too old, and death did not matter to them. In another case the owner remained in his house while our trenches lay at the back of his house, and the enemy's trenches were only 80 yards distant. Every morning he milked his cows, while the projectiles never ceased falling in his enclosure."

"One thing I abominated was, when the shells were fired towards us, and they came with a sound like crying, or whistling, and a devilish noise, we did not feel comfortable under it, and when they burst it was like the air giving us a kick in the side, and our heads shook, and our stomachs seemed on fire."

INDIANA WILL VOTE
ON PROHIBITION ISSUE
IN COMING ELECTION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Indianapolis, Feb. 24.—Gen. John Barleycorn was marshaling his forces today preparatory to attack and defense at several important points in Indiana in March. April and May will see other important engagements with the anti-liquor crusaders attacking or defending as the case may be. Indiana's liveliest issue, the saloon question, bids fair to retain its ascendancy for years to come unless the foes of General Barleycorn sweep in from the rural districts and in a state-wide movement drive his legions from their hitherto impregnable entrenchments.

Something To Color

The Color Balloons

Blanche and Roy are enjoying some bright colored balloons which they received for Christmas. Here is a chance for you to paint each balloon and at the same time learn the colors which are called primary colors, namely red, yellow and blue. Paint the balloons, using the three primary colors. Make Blanche's hair yellow, her dress dark blue, her hood red.

Roy's hair is dark brown, his blouse light green, his trousers dark blue. Leave the following white: the wall, Roy's collar and socks.

Try to use these primary colors, for by using them together you can make green, orange, violet, brown, etc. The next picture for coloring will be "The Young Soldiers."

In swamp regions of the big cities. In no other way, say the liquor men, can such cities as Indianapolis, Port Wayne, Evansville and South Bend be made dry in this generation. Yet 1916 was a winning year for the dry forces, according to figures obtained from the headquarters of the Anti-Saloon league. In the scores of elections held, the dry forces put out of business 112 saloons. The wets re-established five. Of Indiana's ninety-two county seats, fifty-four are without saloons. There are thirty-three counties without a wet spot in them. There are 270 dry incorporated towns and thirty-three dry cities. Elections in 1915, according to the Anti-Saloon league, added territory with 60,000 inhabitants to the dry part of the state.

REVIVING AMERICANISM.
Perhaps no political speech in the past decade has been the subject of so much criticism, favorable and otherwise, than the utterances of Elihu Root at the New York republican convention last week. It was a wonderful talk. If written by an official at Washington it would have been a state paper of no mean importance and the strange part of it all is that even those who object to its language and findings all agree that it means just what it says and what it intended to mean and no mistaking the facts either.

Among those elements which criticized the address and took Mr. Root to task for his utterances was the New York World, a strong pro-Wilson ally, to which the Wall Street Journal says in reply:

"If it were not for the danger which misrepresentation, especially in the editorial columns of a newspaper, always involves, the spectacle of the New York World teaching diplomatic history, and actually that of the Hague conventions, to Elihu Root, would be richly comic. Of all men in the world, he probably knows most about those conventions; and his letter of instructions to our delegates, written when he was secretary of state, is admitted and quoted the world over.

In the chorus of well-deserved praise which has followed Mr. Root's great speech, there is still a lack of entire appreciation. The speech was greater than the occasion. It was not a republican party effort. It was something which any honest man might have said from any party standpoint, given Mr. Root's experience and brains. The speech was far greater than those 'keynote' efforts which Chauncey Depew justly ridiculed. It was a return to the noblest Americanism, at a time when that invaluable quality had been debased by sterile pedants and mischievous quacks.

Neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Mr. Root ever said that it was our duty to go to war for Belgium. Neither of these statements, for they are statements, is a world-acknowledged sense. As Mr. Wilson never was and never will be proposed to lead this country into war. Neither of them could have been guilty of the useless and meaningless act of war blundered into at Vera Cruz. A protest from the greatest neutral in the world, when all neutrality was imperiled by the violation of Belgium, would not have been an act of war. If Congress, on Bernstorff's sinking of the Lusitania, this country need never have fired a shot. If, indeed, there had been at the White House a Roosevelt or a Root to adopt these, the only logical course, and the only policies consistent with national honor, the Lusitania would be still alive.

"For years to come, long after party bickering is stilled, Mr. Root's speech will be the standard for American thought and conduct in relation to the rest of mankind. It properly discards the pacifist theory that nothing is worth fighting for, and states a rule of resolution which is in itself the truest guarantee of peace. This is the way the famous men gone before us taught and acted. There is a standard for a true Americanism, better than anything the White House has offered since the outbreak of the European war.

"The New York World has a powerful and influential editorial page. For this reason there is something dangerous as well as comic in the spectacle of that great newspaper holding the wash-basin for Pontius Pilate."

BOOST HOME INDUSTRIES.
One way to make Janesville succeed is to boost home industries. One way to bring Rock county to the fore front is to boost Rock county products. To talk about the crops, the herds of fine cattle, the droves of fat hogs, the sheep; tell what a great country it is for corn, for tobacco, for crops of all kinds.

There is a prolific field for discussion when any of these subjects are taken up. They have a talking value that should not be overlooked. The city of Janesville itself offers much more of interest to the casual talker than will give excellent arguments for boosting the community.

The talk of starting a new factory here by the workmen of the city is one that deserves particular attention. It is a worthy cause and one that should bring results in the long run. Be a booster and talk the great advantages to be found in Janesville or Rock county and note the speedy returns.

The motorists are not expecting to run less speedy cars to offset the high price of gasoline, as of course their wives will be glad to get along with-out new dresses.

GARRISON DOUBLE-CROSSED.
The genesis of Secretary Garrison's resignation is readily traceable. It had its roots in the intellectual honesty and candor of Mr. Garrison's nature, which first found itself at variance with his chief in relation to the Mexican policy, where the perils and piffling Bryan methods were permitted to rule a situation which Mr. Garrison felt should be dealt with firmly and in man fashion. But the real point of germination rested in the president's message to Congress a year ago when he lauded "a citizenry trained in arms" as the best means of defense for America.

Mr. Garrison never embraced this doctrine fundamentally, and he was much more, last spring, when the war department was instructed to draw a program for increasing the national defense along lines which military experts could approve. This program was produced, but it never received executive approval—and later the war department was ordered to draft a policy which should be based upon the Wilsonian dictum of an armed citizenry. The continental army scheme was the result. There is nothing to indicate that Mr. Garrison was enamored of the plan, but he was given to understand that the president favored it and that the endorsement and support of the white house would follow. Accordingly he lent the full force of his active and vigorous mind to the development and advocacy of the continental army, thinking it to be just what Wilson wanted and doing the part of a loyalist to his superior to throw the entire weight of his influence in its behalf, even if he had undertaken the task with some misgivings.

This plan received Mr. Wilson's full approval in the face-about message which he delivered to Congress this year—and Mr. Garrison went boldly before the committees of Congress to urge the scheme which he believed to be dear to the president's heart. He loyally took responsibility for the plan upon himself and he made an exceedingly forceful presentation of a case which he had been led to think was the president's own.

It soon became apparent that the continental army had few friends in Congress and the president's candidacy for a second term brought about a remarkable change of front at the White House. The president's famous "open mind" began to manifest itself, and Mr. Garrison immediately noticed an ominous slackening of enthusiasm for the continental army on the part of its own father. The secretary, however, remained true. He continued to advocate the measure which Wilson had thrust upon him—and he continued his advocacy of it to the point where it became necessary to know whether he was soon to find himself entirely bereft of the president's confidence and support and to confront, instead, a president who was openly dealing with the opponents of the plan.

An exchange of opinions developed what Mr. Garrison has described as "hopeless differences" and, like an honorable man, Mr. Garrison withdrew from the cabinet. This action has brought consternation not alone to the ranks of those who honestly want an effective policy of national defense. This does not mean that the continental army is a necessary part of such a policy—but it does mean that such a policy can be developed only by men of honest and patriotic motives. Garrison is such a man. Wilson is not. Two such men cannot long remain in close association. Garrison's withdrawal was inevitable sooner or later. The only question was as to the point on which he should part company with the president.

Journaler from morn to night,
Nothing seemed to go just right;
And he wandered through the town
Spreading seeds of discontent.
On his shoulders, sure as fate,

Worried when he went to bed,
Fearing that he'd wake up dead.
When he rose next morn,

He smelled trouble for a mile
When the world was coming to
Same as Ebenzer Blue.
Some folks thought the future bright;
He said they were fools, all right.
So he worried night and day,
Till his appetite and say,
He was thin as any rat.
Care, you know, will kill a cat.
And he left this vale of tears
At the age of thirty years.

There is some concern over the safety of Mr. Elmer Jones, our congenial crayon portrait canvasser, who left this town two days ago on a canvassing trip. It is feared that he has met with foul play, as no picture postcards have been received at the local postoffice for the village milliner.

Mr. Amasa Jones of our village has been stung again. He sent to a mail-order house for a glass eye and he can't see with it better than he could before.

Ever Know This Man?
Ebenzer Amos Blue
Journaler from morn to night,
Nothing seemed to go just right;
And he wandered through the town
Spreading seeds of discontent.
On his shoulders, sure as fate,
Rested all the cares of state.
It was his life mission to Save his country safely through.
Worried when he went to bed,
Fearing that he'd wake up dead.
When he rose next morn,
Said he wished he'd never been born.
The day opened bright and fair,
"Weather breeder," he'd declare.
Folks would walk around a block
To dodge Ebenzer's knock.

Other fellows got ahead.
Spite of all that Eben said;
Spite of all the warnings he
Gave them absolutely free.
He smelled trouble for a mile
When the world was coming to
Same as Ebenzer Blue.

Till his appetite and say,

ROD AND GUN CLUB TO PURCHASE WILD BIRDS FOR COUNTY

Vote to Expend Funds to Buy Pheasants for Game Preserve.—Many to Attend Banquet.

Members of the Rod and Gun club which will be changed to be named the Rock County Game Protective association, voted at their meeting held last night at the city hall to expend funds to purchase pheasants and game fowls to be placed on the club's preserve in an effort to stock the county with the best game fowls. There were many of the members present last night, and through a resolution passed the president, F. E. Green, was authorized to act in conjunction with a committee of two to expend what money could be spared from the treasury for the purchase of the pheasants.

It was voted to purchase a pair of white swans to be released on Rock river between the Court street bridge and the upper dam. The club expects to spend between $350 and $400 in the purchase of the pheasants, swans and other game birds. The work of stocking the county with a big game fowls is going to be a big undertaking and the Rod and Gun club has made a most successful start. The propagation work is a new undertaking in the state and the Rock county sportsmen were among the first to realize its value and future. Since their organization and start many other clubs in other counties have been formed along the same line.

In the last four days forty new members have been added to the club, and now the total membership is around four hundred. The thousand paid members is the aim of the sportsmen and business men, as the county is awakening to the real work and value of game protection and propagation. Each member contributes a dollar for membership, and contributions can be obtained from the committee composed of William Taylor, Harry Macnamara, W. E. Mason, F. E. Green and William Taylor.

The club has twenty-one hundred acres set aside on farms north of the city and the land is fully protected by the state as a wild game preserve. Five acres of orchard land and the Rock river are fenced off and all the pheasants to be purchased on the order of the resolution passed last night will be confined to this land. It is the present plan to have eggs of the birds hatched out by hens and it is anticipated that with favorable conditions three hundred more pheasants will be added to the preserve by next year. There are over a hundred of the birds running wild on the farm lands at the present time, and the first venture, when fifteen birds were purchased, have been far more successful than any of the members had dared hope for.

Over two hundred and fifty are expected to attend the first annual banquet to be given by the Rod and Gun club on March first at the city hall, at which time the resolution for changing the name of the club will be brought up. Tickets until yesterday were sold only to members and it was reported by President Green this morning that there were a few tickets left to be obtained by others interested in the club's work. Governor E. L. Clegg, Hon. L. C. Whittey, and three members of the state conservation commission will be the guests of the club at the banquet. Prof. Wagner of the University of Wisconsin will deliver the principal address, and he is an authority on wild game and is interested in the preservation of the wild life in the state. The menu for the banquet will consist of genuine "sportsmen's grub, starting with turtle soup, pike and roasts, venison with all the trimmings" to be served in three courses.

THE NEW WORLD AND THE COLLEGE WOMAN

"The New World and the College Woman" is the title of an interesting article by Miss Mary Emogene Hazel, preceptor of the library school at the University of Wisconsin, in the February issue of the Bookman, a telling of the work Miss Hazel is doing in "Library work is newer than teaching and older than social service. The important factor in this new movement is the librarian trained for service. With a liberal mind and vision, able to direct affairs, filled with the new spirit of brotherhood, eager to make the world of books serviceable in the lives of people."

KEITH WILD MARRIED ON ST. VALENTINE DAY

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wild the Bride of Robert Scott Dailey of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wild announce the marriage of their daughter, Keith Stralen Wild, to Robert Scott Dailey of Chicago, the ceremony taking place on February fourteenth, Mr. and Mrs. Scott are the guests of the bride's parents at the Hotel Myers.

The above announcement will come as a direct surprise to the many friends of the bride, who had merely heard rumors for several days past that she had married the man of her choice on St. Valentine's day. No one was taken into the confidence of the young couple and the ceremony was quietly performed and the bride went to visit friends at Red Oak, Iowa, while the groom remained in Chicago, where business engagements kept him.

Mr. and Mrs. Wild were notified of the marriage by letter, and last evening the happy couple arrived in Janesville to receive the congratulations of the bride's parents and their many friends here.

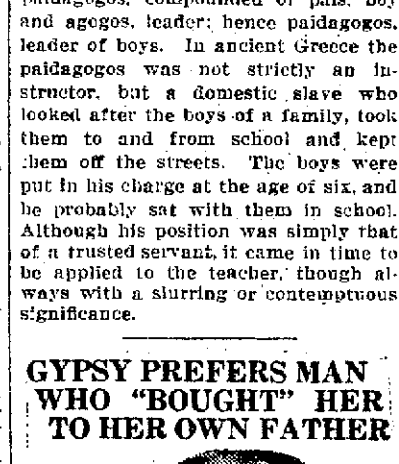

K. OF C. WILL DANCE ON FRIDAY EVENING

Members of Carroll Council No. 596, Knights of Columbus, will hold a dancing party tomorrow evening in their dance hall above their club rooms in the Myers block. Dancing will be enjoyed from 8:30 o'clock. A program of both new and old steps will be had.

Pedagogue.

The word "pedagogue," as applied to schoolteachers, is from a Greek word, paidagogos, compounded of pais, boy and agogos, leader; hence paidagogos, leader of boys. In ancient Greece the paidagogos was not strictly an instructor, but a domestic slave who looked after the boys of a family, took them to and from school and kept them off the streets. The boys were put in his charge at the age of six, and he probably sat with them in school. Although his position was simply that of a trusted servant, it came in time to be applied to the teacher, though always with a slurring or contemptuous significance.

GYPSY PREFERS MAN WHO "BOUGHT" HER TO HER OWN FATHER

Mariana Nareno.

Mariana Nareno, a fifteen-year-old gypsy girl, is living happily with Mark Adams, also a gypsy, on the Pacific coast. Adams says he bought the girl outright for $2,500. The father says he only "loaned" the girl to Adams for two weeks. The two men are having a court fight over the girl, who says she prefers Adams to her father.

DWELLS UPON FACTORS FOR MOULDING YOUTH

Speaker at Detroit Educational Meeting Thinks Teachers and Parents Can Make Best of Young.

(By Associated Press.) Detroit, Feb. 24.—Ninety percent of truancy occurs with boys. Ninety percent of juvenile court children are boys, said Mrs. Frederick Schoff of Philadelphia today, speaking at the national congress of the Mothers, Parents and Teachers' association, one of the many organizations meeting here in connection with the National Educational association, the department of superintendence.

Worse even than infant mortality, continued Mrs. Schoff, "is the entrance into a life of crime of so many boys. Individual sympathetic treatment and study beyond which is possible for any busy teacher without her co-operation is essential if these boys are to be led upward. Force will not do it. Laws will not do it. Each is an individual needing individual, loving care and guidance.

Definite systematic co-operation of home, school, church, business men and the court, if conducted on the basis of insight into boy nature, and tendencies will help these boys over a critical period and make good men of them. The parent teacher association, or any association connected with school or church, can help save the boys by having a committee of fathers and mothers, who will have confidential relations with teachers and give quiet, unostentatious help.

Mrs. Schoff urged the organization of such a committee in every school. W. S. Foserty, country superintendent of schools at Eaton, O., described to the national of state supervisors and inspectors of rural schools, the workings of Ohio's new school law.

"BILL" CARY PEEVES
HIS CONSTITUENTS

William J. Cary.

Congressman Cary of Wisconsin peevish his constituents by saying on the floor of the house that Uncle Sam should make Milwaukee the nation's capital because it would never go dry. The breweries didn't like it because it has aroused the Anti-Saloon League to more active endeavor; and the Anti-Saloon League didn't like it because they think Cary is joking them.

NEWS NOTES—MOVIELAND

It looks as if Alexander Gaden, the leading man starred in five-reel features, would be allowed to play only professional men. His first picture, "As a Woman Sows," presented him as a young lawyer who had been elected as a reform mayor. Then he followed this with the strong part of the minister in "The Drifter." Now is to be released, Miss Majorie Howe's "Accuse," with Mr. Gaden as a young lawyer who has just been elected to the bench.

Life in a small town is faithfully mirrored in this latter picture, which tells the story of a minister with an ungovernable temper. In a fit of blind rage, he is tricked into striking his co-churchman and later is led to believe that the man has died. He is sentenced to prison by the young judge who loves his daughter.

CHARLOTTE WALKER PICKED BY PUBLIC.

Following the policy of letting the public do the picking, Miss Charlotte Walker was signed to a long contract after a canvass of the entire country for the public's vote. Miss Walker completely won her way into the hearts of the movie fans when she appeared in the film play of "Kindling." She will be seen again shortly in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

"SONS OF SATAN" HAS UNUSUAL PLOT.
An unusual plot, in which a crook masquerades as a detective, with many complicating and thrilling climaxes, is offered in "Sons of Satan," a lavish five-part photodrama which will shortly release on the feature program. It was staged under the direction of George L. Tucker, who produced "Traffic in Souls" and is said to be a masterly production.

Showed Them How.

In "Weas' Honor" is this story: "Sir Fouk Pittwarren was recounting to his knights his exploits against the Saracens. These being calmly received Sir Fouk said, 'But right here, the other day, I jumped from the ground to the top of my castle.' The knights being skeptical, Sir Fouk invited them to come the next day and see him perform the feat. When they assembled he jumped up one step of the stairway and continued jumping, step by step, till he was on the top of the tallest tower. 'But we could do that too,' chorused the knights. 'Not till I showed you how,' retorted the redoubtable warrior."

Seagru and Spike on the platform passed the window. Storm, at this juncture, ran in from the field of battle. "There's too many of them," he said in disgust. "Every time you knock one dago down, two Greeks come in to take his place. The way to wind this thing up, Mr. Rhineland, quick and clean, is to capture Seagru and lock him up. We can do it. Stick him in the freighthouse here and pile a couple of dozen bags of cement on him. No? I say, yes!! Something's got to be done."

Can't you get a message through somehow?" asked Rhineland of Helen in agitation.

"Yes," she answered, unhesitatingly. "I can. I'll get one through for you."

So saying, she caught up an extra instrument, ran out on the platform and climbed the pole Spike had climbed, to cut in with her pony above the break. Storm called into conference the handiest of his men—men who cared neither for the law nor the devil—and giving brief and hurried instructions, ran from the station at the moment that Seagru with his outfit were rushing the outnumbered Tidewater gang.

Pushing straight through his own demoralized forces to the thick of the scrimmage, knocking men right and left when he had to and dodging in between when he could, Storm, his two trusties at his elbows, struck, shoved and jumped his way straight to where Seagru was urging his fighting men on. The latter, busy with the main encounter, saw Storm too late. The engineers catching him by the collar whirled him unceremoniously around, pinioned him before a blow could be struck and with his helpers dragged him victoriously off.

Bedlam was let loose. Seagru's men, seeing the trick too late, ran in with a yell to rescue him. Back and forth the fight swayed, while Helen, above at the depot, attached her instrument and sent to the dispatcher her hurry-up message. "Seagru has the ties. Send Help. H."

But whoever had the ties, Storm had Seagru, and his men were now easily standing off the onslaughts of Seagru's men on the platform. The latter, needing help, sent for reinforcements, and a moment later the entire gang, leaving the unloading of the tie cars ran down the track to join in the fight. The train was left deserted. Storm, seeing this, turned his prisoner over to his men and chose a moment when he could break away to run to the engine. Gaining the cab, he immediately started to back the train up to Rhineland's camp, where the main body of their men still were. As the train drew past the station, Helen, having finished, sprang recklessly from the pole to the top of a box car and running forward met Storm, who had started back, and showed him a message from the dispatcher: "Will send sheriff to Signal."

While the men were still fighting in front of the station, Spike managed to tear himself loose from the fray in time to see the freight train backing up the hill. He knew what this meant and realized the move must be stopped. Running to his horse he mounted and spurred after the receding train. But his intervention had turned the fighting in favor of Seagru's men, and they were fast beating Rhineland's gang off. By a sudden rush on the freighthouse they even recaptured and released Seagru himself.

"THE SABLE LORCHA"
ORIENTAL THRILLER

Triangle Feature, Coupled With Keystone Comedy, "His Father's Footsteps," Entertains Princess Audience.

Providing you with thrills and a slight creepy feeling, the Triangle picture, "The Sable Lorch," shown yesterday at the Princess theatre, for six long reels, carried you into many strange and weird scenes in New York Chinatown. Thomas Jefferson scored a telling effect in the dual role of the twin brothers, confusing one appearance with another, while Tully capably portrays the characterizing Marshall portrays the characterizing man, in a capable manner.

Ford Sterling, the famous Keystone Funmaker, was also shown in a lively comedy, "His Father's Footsteps." The facial contortions of Sterling, resulting from his many embarrasments, are good laugh fetchers.

"The Sable Lorch" and "His Father's Footsteps" can be seen again this evening at the Princess.

TWENTY-FOURTH GREEK PLAY GIVEN AT BELoit COLLEGE SCHEDULED FOR MARCH 2

The class of 1916 of Beloit College announces a presentation of the "Antigone" of Sophocles, in English, at the new Wilson Opera House, Beloit.

NEEDY IMMIGRANT
NOW A MILLIONAIRE

Niels A. Christensen.

From a poor Danish immigrant, to a man of millions, is the brief story of this man's career. He was a needy inventor in 1899; today he is a wealthy manufacturer of Milwaukee, Wis. He has just won a lawsuit for some $2,000,000 in royalties from the Westinghouse interests of Pittsburgh, for the use of his electric car air brakes.

"GINGLES JINGLES"

DISCOURAGEMENTS.

Get the right attitude and get on the right track. It's the right mental slant is the thing that you lack. If you're out for a joy ride and don't give a cuss, you had better change wagons, you're on the wrong bus. For you can't go the limit in pleasures unwise and be up on the job with the hard-working guys. And for you to start shipping will give you the blues, then discouragement comes, and you're listed to lose. So get wise in the start and live simple and plain. There is nothing you'll miss, but there's much you will gain. Your discouragements always are backed by a cause, for they show you are shy on obeying the laws. And the moods of discouragement stand in your way. You can never succeed and permit them to stay. It is all up to you and it's in your own hands. You should think it all over and make your demands. And then simply stand pat when you put in the claim, and your wants will come over if you're only game. Your discouragements beat it if given a chance. So just chain the blue devils and on with the Linx Single dance.

Wisconsin, on the evening of Thursday, March the second.

This Greek play will be the twenty-fourth in the series of ancient classical dramas that have been given in Beloit since the custom was initiated in 1885. The fame of these performances has given a unique position to Beloit College and has attracted the attention of the metropolitan press throughout the country, as well as the notice of classical scholars.

The "Antigone" is a play with a strong appeal to present day interests. The clash between peace and war motives is its subject. The Beloit College senior class are giving their best efforts to prepare such setting, costumes, music, dancing and dramatic recital as shall make the ancient play touch the heart of the modern audience and stir the historic curiosity at the novel sight of the elevated stage and statuesque chorus.

If We Told You the Name of the Publisher of Our Almanac
You Would Buy It in an Instant

You would not hesitate for a second but would say: "I will take a copy." That is because the name of the publisher is a household one on two continents. He has never published any but the very best works—the most authentic of their kind and many folks know it. Unfortunately, one of the conditions for our getting a reasonable price was that we would not tell his name because it would hurt the sale of this same book that is published under his own name and sold at a much higher price. But you can take our word that it is the most accurately compiled work of its kind.

LIVES IN PERIL AT DANGEROUS CROSSING

Experience of Town of Janesville Resident Brings Up Question of More Effective Safety Provisions.

Attention to the dangerous conditions existing at the Pleasant street or "Five Points" railroad crossing has been called by the Janesville resident of town of Janesville, who has narrowly escaped a fatal accident. In a communication to the Gazette the situation is described, which only serves to emphasize the need for more adequate safety provisions.

Janesville Daily Gazette.

Gentlemen:—Thinking that the citizens of Janesville should know of the dangers at the Five Points crossing, and that the city should take steps to place by the railway companies, I will tell you of this incident:

My wife and our little two-year-old boy were coming down Pleasant street from the west about four o'clock Saturday afternoon, Feb. 19th. A freight car was crossing the street on the Northwestern tracks going north and the gates were closed. The train waited and the gates were raised. There was also an auto waiting and my wife followed, but having a horse and buggy didn't stop. The horse was startled and a good trot and there was ample time to cross the track ahead of the freight, which had started to back up. There was no flagman in sight and the gate-man was ringing the bell, but not as though there was any special urgency or need to hurry. My wife thinks the freight was on the second track from the east (excepting the side track to the lumber yard). When on the track the freight was backing on toward her, a passenger train suddenly appeared moving out very rapidly on the track east of the freight. There was no time to turn and she could not stop on the track she was on because of the freight. Expecting nothing else than to be crashed into she took the only possible chance of escape by jumping the fence and trying to cross the tracks. The horse leaped ahead, barely clearing the tracks as the train went by.

Town of Janesville Resident.

The fact has been numerous incidents of similar nature at this crossing as many a resident of Janesville can testify. That there have been fewer serious accidents is little short of miraculous, but some day the lives lost at this place, it would be far better, it is evident, to take all the precautions necessary beforehand, the only effective and sure means to safeguard the traveling public is to build a viaduct. There has been agitation along this line before but the railroad companies and city have balked at the expense, but those with humanitarian interests at heart maintain that dollars and cents should not be considered when the matter of the safety of human life is involved. It is manifestly a municipal question which should be solved at once, the sooner the better. The incident related above has already been brought to the attention of the railroad companies.

METHODISTS OF WISCONSIN CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF BISHOP'S CONSECRATION.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Milwaukee, Feb. 24.—Leading Methodists of Wisconsin gathered here today to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the consecration of Bishop W. W. Webb, of the Milwaukee diocese.

The program consisted of a church celebration; a luncheon for the clergy; and a banquet. The celebration of a solemn holy eucharist took place at 10:30 o'clock this morning at which Bishop Webb was the celebrant and Bishop E. R. Weiler of Fond du Lac preached the sermon. Among those in attendance were Bishops Charles P. Anderson of Chicago and Bishop McCormick and Bishop Williams of Michigan. At noon Bishop Webb gave a luncheon at his house for the clergymen. About 900 pastors from Milwaukee and neighboring dioceses were present.

More than five hundred persons are expected to attend a banquet which will be given tonight by the church club in honor of the bishop in Gimbel's grill room.

Bishop Webb was born in Philadelphia in 1857. After completing a science course in the University of Pennsylvania, he entered Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., for a classical course. He then entered Berkeley Divinity school and was ordained a deacon in 1885 and a minister in 1886. During his deaconate he was an assistant of the church of the Evangelists, Philadelphia. He was rector of St. Elizabeth's church, Philadelphia from 1889 to 1892.

He was appointed professor of dogmatic theology at Nashotah Theological seminary in 1892 and became president of the institution in 1897.

He was elected coadjutor bishop of Milwaukee, under Bishop Isaac Lea Nicholson, on November 21, 1905, and was consecrated on February 24, 1906. Bishop Nicholson died on Oct. 29, 1906, and Bishop Webb succeeded him.

MANUFACTURING SILK FROM FIBRE OF BANANA PLANT

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 24.—Interest has been aroused in commercial circles in this city over the announcement of the invention of a method of manufacturing artificial silk from the fibre of the banana plant. The invention, which was perfected by Sr. Adalberto Yelga, consists of a chemical treatment of the banana plant in such a manner that the plant fibre is reduced to a gum, from which is spun a fine, elastic, resistant floss that has all the qualities of natural silk.

It is claimed, also, that the floss is suitable for the manufacture of celluloid and gum of tannin are by products of the artificial silk process. If experience proves that this claim is well founded, Brazil will have discovered another great natural resource. Bananas grow in great profusion in every part of Brazil and cultivation consists of just one process—harvest.

PATENTS TO INVENTORS.

"GINGLES JINGLES"

DISCOURAGEMENTS.

Get the right attitude and get on the right track. It's the right mental slant is the thing that you lack. If you're out for a joy ride and don't give a cuss, you had better change wags, you're on the wrong bus. For you can't go the limit in pleasures unwise and be up on the job with the hard-working guys. And for you to start slipping will give you the blues, then discouragement comes and you're listed to lose. So get wise in the start and live simple and plain. There is nothing you'll miss, but there's much you will gain. Your discouragements always are backed by a cause, for they show you are shy on obeying the laws. And the moods of discouragement stand in your way. You can never succeed and permit them to stay. It is all up to you and it's in your own hands. You should think it all over and make your demands. And then simply stand pat when you put in the claim, and your wants will come over if you're only game. Your discouragements beat it if given a chance. So just chain the blue devils and on with the blue devils and dance.

HANOVER

Hanover, Feb. 23.—Ted Lentz attended the cement show in Chicago last week.

On Friday evening the Ladies' Aid entertained their husbands at a Leap Year party.

The M. W. A. held a meeting on Friday night.

John Borkenhagen was an Orfordville visitor Saturday.

Friends were shocked on Sunday morning to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. John Ostrander, she having fallen down the cellar steps at her home, crushing her skull. She lived half an hour afterward, but never regained consciousness. She leaves to mourn her death, a husband and a daughter, Mrs. William Walters. Funeral services will be held at one o'clock at the home of Mrs. William Walters after which burial will be made at the Plymouth cemetery.

Art Hawkins, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Joe Hemmingsway, returned to his home in Farley, Iowa, Sunday.

Harry Detmer spent Tuesday in Janesville.

A good sized crowd attended the lecture and stereopticon views at the hall on Tuesday night.

Ora Millard and family are moving onto the Charles Hemmingsway farm. William Walters received word of the death of his cousin, August Beckman of Chicago, a former resident of this town, and attended the funeral in Chicago Wednesday.

On Saturday evening at the M. W. A. hall a social dancing party will be given, to which all are invited to attend.

Mrs. Luckfield and grand-daughter, Frances, were Janesville visitors Tuesday.

Mrs. F. Schultz is on the sick list.

A Warning by an ex-tenderfoot

A little learning is a dangerous thing

When the New Yorker bought Hiram's farm, he rejected Hiram's methods. He had theories of his own.

He got rid of the cows; pruned the orchard too heavily; threw the farm all out of balance.

"The trouble with me," he says, "was that I knew too much and not enough."

He has had four costly, nerve-racking years. But at last he is winning. He knows now that his neighbors were practical, and that he let his theories run away with him.

His case is not unusual. His story is a warning. He tells it well—Tenderfoot Farming—today, in

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Evidently Van-der-Wurst Is Not Going to Have an Easy Time of It

BY F. LEIPZIGER

Man's Limitations.
Man has been able to learn some things, but has forgotten many others. He has not added one sense to his senses, one limb to his limbs, one faculty to his soul. He has merely explored another region of the circle in which he is confined. The human mind is always in motion. It runs from one point to another. It exalts what it embraces and forgets what it has abandoned. It never manages to cultivate one part of its domain without leaving the others fallow.—"The Inequality of the Human Races."

How To Get Rid of a Bad Cough

A Home-Made Remedy that Will Do It Quickly, Cheap and Easily Made

If you have a bad cough or chest cold which refuses to yield to ordinary remedies, get from any drugstore 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking a teaspoonful every hour or two. In 24 hours your cough will be conquered or very nearly so. Even whooping cough is quickly relieved in this way.
The above mixture makes a full pint—a family supply—of the finest cough syrup that money could buy—at a cost of only 54 cents. Easily prepared in 5 minutes. Full directions with Pinex.
This Pinex and Sugar Syrup preparation takes right hold of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough in a way that is really remarkable. Also quickly breaks the inflamed membranes which accompany a painful cough, and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. Excellent for bronchitis, spasmodic croup and winter coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children like it.
Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in ginkgol, which is so healing to the membranes.
To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Alan started and looked up from her work. "Don't you think you had better come back—and bring the talk back with you?"
It was Collingford's turn to start. "I beg your pardon," he said. "You are right, I was in another world. Only you mustn't get a wrong impression. Everybody says it was an accident—except Bodsky. He has never said anything."

CHAPTER XIII

Alan Wayne had been away for a year. He had not returned from Montreal but had gone one from there to work in South America and, later, to Africa.

He had been in town for several days when he met the judge one afternoon in November on the avenue.

"Judge," he said without preamble, "what's this I hear about Gerry disappearing?"

"It's true," said the judge and added grimly, "he disappeared the day you went to Montreal."

Alan colored and his face turned grave. "I am sorry," he said. "I didn't know it."

"Sorry for what?" asked the judge, but Alan refused the opening and the judge hardly regretted it. They were not in time and he felt it. His heart was heavy over Alan for his own sake.

He had broken what the judge had long revered as a charmed circle. He had killed himself from that which should have been dearer to him than his heart's desire. The judge wondered if he realized it. "You're not going out to Red Hill?" he asked, trying to make the question casual.

Alan glanced at him sharply. What was the judge after? "No," he said after a pause, "I shall not break the communal coma of Red Hill for some time. I'm off again. McDale & McDale have loaned me to Edlinson's. I've become a sort of poobah on construction in Africa. They get a premium for lending me."

Alan's speech habitually drew except for an occasional retort that came like the crack of a whip. The judge looked him over curiously. Alan's dress was almost too refined. His person was as well cared for as a woman's. Every detail about him was a studied negation of work, utility, service. The judge thought of Collingford's story and wondered.

They walked in silence for some time and then Alan took his leave. The judge followed his erect figure with solemn eyes. Alan had deteriorated. One cannot be the fly in the amber of more than one woman's memory without clouding one's own soul, and a clouded soul has its peculiar circumambulation which the clean can feel. The judge felt it in Alan and winced.

If Alan did not go to the Hill, the Hill, in certain measure, came to Alan. The next afternoon found the captain once more established in his chair in a window at the club with Alan beside him. The captain had not changed. His hair was in the same state of white insolvency. His eyes bulged in the same old way, and he still puffed when he talked. His garb was identical and awakened the usual interest in the passing gamin.

"You'll never grow old, sir," said Alan.

"Old!" said the captain. "Hub, I grew old before you were born." The captain spoke with pride. He straightened his bullet head and poised a tot of whisky with a steady hand. "What did I tell you?" he said into space.

"How's that, sir?"

"What did I tell you," repeated the captain swinging around his eyes, "about women?"

Alan flushed angrily. He had no retort for the old man. He sat sullenly silent.

The captain colored too. "That's right," he said with a surprising touch of choler. "Suik. Every badly broken old sulk at the grip of the bit. What you need, young man, is a touch of the whip and you're going to get it."

And then the old man revealed a surprising knowledge of words that could lash. At first Alan was indifferent, then amazed, and finally recognized himself beaten at his own game. He came out of that interview thoroughly chastened and with an altogether new respect for the old captain. No one knew better than Alan that it took a special brand of courage to whip him with words but the captain had not stopped to stuff his own ears with cotton wool before engaging the enemy. He had risked all in one liquid, stinging, overwhelming volley and he had won.

The captain's code was peculiar, to say the least, and held the passionate pilgrim in ample regard but, as he pointed out to Alan, it was a code of honor. It played a game within rules. He further remarked that the hawk was a bird of evil repute but personally he preferred him to the eagle that fouls its own nest. There were other pregnant phrases that hung in Alan's mind for some time and half awakened him to a realization of where he stood. Many a man, propped up by the sustaining atmosphere of a narrow world, has passed meretricious judgment on such sins as Alan's—metals, unproved, sitting in judgment over the bar that twists in the flame. But the captain was not one of the world's confident army of the untested. He had roamed the high seas of pleasure as well as the ocean wave. Alan would have struck back at a saint but he took chastisement from the old sinner with good grace.

Alan left the captain and presented himself at the downtown offices of J. Y. Wayne & Co. They were expecting him and he was shown in to his uncle immediately, to the exasperation of several pompous, waiting clerks. It was the first time that uncle and nephew had been face to face since their memorable interview at Maple House.

J. Y. Wayne was aging. He had lived hard and showed it, but there was no weakness in his age and he met Alan without compromise. He nodded toward a chair but did not offer his hand. When he spoke his voice was low and modulated to the tone of burning. J. Y. went on, "Shame is a precious thing to a man. Different creeds—different circumstances—carry us to various lengths. Ethics are elastic today as never before but, as long as shame holds a bit of ground in a man's battlefield, he can win back to any height."

For a long minute there was silence, then on a common impulse they both arose. Alan's eyes were wide open and moist. He held out his hand and J. Y. gripped it. It was their whole farewell.

Back in his rooms Alan sat down and wrote to Clem:

Dear Clem: We are all two people. Uncle J. Y. cut his other half off about thirty years ago and left it behind. The judge has his other half locked up in a closet. He has never let it out at all, and so on, with every one of us. This sounds funny to you now but some day when you are grown up you will catch your self looking at you and then you will understand what I mean. I am two people too. The half of me that knows you and loves you and Red Hill and that you love has been away longer than the rest of me. He only got back twenty minutes ago, and it is too late for him to come and see you because he and the rest of me are off tomorrow on another trip. But he wants you to know that he is awfully sorry to have missed you. Next time I shall bring him with me. I hope, and I'll send him to you the day we arrive.

CHAPTER XIV

There is no stronger proof of man's evolution than his adaptability—his power of attainment through the material at hand, however elementary.

From the very beginning, the necessities of his new life called to Gerry's dormant instincts. For the first week he would not hear. The past loosens its tendrils slowly. He was listless and loafed restlessly about the house. The two darkies worked for his well-being, the two white women waited on him hand and foot. At first it was tiring; then it was wearying. He began to wander from the house.

But the week had not been altogether lost. He had gathered desultory but primitive information. Occasional re-occurring words began to be more than mere sounds. The girl's name was Margarita. The wrinkled little woman was her aunt, Dona Maria. The two darkies were lingering relics of slave days. They had been born here. They had gone with emancipation, but they had come back. The name of the plantation was Fazenda Flores. To them it was the world. They had wandered out of it hand in hand with liberty but they had come back because freedom was here. They needed someone to serve. Margarita had long been an orphan. The place was hers and had once been rich. But before her day water had become scarce. The place was uncared for and had fallen into its present ruin. It was well, she said, for if she had been rich suitors would have searched her out long since. She was eighteen. She had been a woman for years!

These things, some of them distinct, some only half-formed impressions, ran in Gerry's head as he wandered over the fazenda. It had once been rich, why was it not rich now? Fertility sprung to his view on every side save one. This was the gentle slope away from the river and behind the house. Even here he discovered hummocks in alignment, vague traces of the careful tilling of another time. He climbed the slope till he came to a depression running parallel to the river. It made a line and beyond that line was desert untamed. Cactus and thorn dotted its barren soil. Gerry followed the depression down to its end, then turned back and followed it up. It wandered among rocks and hillocks to a natural cleft in the banks of the great river.

He climbed a point of rock and gazed around him. Far down to the left gleamed the old plantation house in the midst of its waste lands. His eye followed the long depression and he began to understand many things. The rule was a young ruin like himself. In itself it contained the seeds of rejuvenescence. It had been robbed of its talisman and its talisman was water. Tons of water flowed past it and left it thirsting for drops. Irrigation is coeval with the birth of civilization. It had been here in this depression, lived, and passed away before he and the girl were born. He tried to explain to her what once had been, but she shrugged her shoulders. She was not interested; she did not understand. Together they walked back to the house. Gerry was silent and thoughtful. He saw a vision of what Fazenda Flores had once been, what work could make it again.

Dinner Stories

An Irish drill sergeant was instructing some recruits in the mysteries of marching movements, and found great difficulty in getting a countryman of his to halt when the command was given. After explaining and illustrating several times he approached the recruit, sized him up silently for a couple of minutes, then demanded his name.

"Fitzgerald, sir," was the reply.

"Did you ever drive a donkey, Fitz?"

"Yes, sir."

THE "COME-BACK"

The "Come-back" man was really never down-and-out. His weakened condition because of over-work, lack of exercise, improper eating and living, demands stimulation to satisfy the cry for a health-giving appetite and the refreshing sleep essential to strength. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules, the National Remedy of Holland, will do the work. They are wonderful! Three of these capsules each day will put a man on his feet before he knows it; whether his trouble comes from uric acid poisoning, the kidneys, gravel or stone in the bladder, stomach derangement or other ailments that befall the over-zealous American. Don't wait until you are entirely down-and-out, but take them today. Your druggist will gladly refund your money if they do not help you. 25c, 50c and $1.00 per box. Accept no substitutes. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on every box. They are the pure, original, imported Haarlem Oil Capsules.

A MOTHER'S GRATITUDE

Mrs. F. A. Conrad of Altoona Says

That Father John's Medicine Keeps

Her Children Well

The mother of four children, Mrs. F. A. Conrad, says: "My children were at different times troubled with severe colds, also croup and bronchitis, and I have given them Father John's Medicine, which has given complete satisfaction, and I cannot find words to express my thankfulness for the benefit that Father John's Medicine did. My younger boy was always weak, but thanks to Father John's Medicine, he is now the picture of health." (Signed) Mrs. F. A. Conrad, 1114 Second avenue, Altoona, Pa. It is important for mothers to know that Father John's Medicine is safe to give their children for colds, coughs and grip, because it is free from chloroform, opium, morphine, codeine, heroin or any other dangerous drugs in any form. Father John's Medicine is all pure and wholesome nourishment, its gentle laxative effect helps to drive out impurities and it soothes and heals the breathing passages.

If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist, write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

business. "I wanted to see you to tell you that you have overpaid your account with me. The balance has been put to your credit. You can see the cashier about that. I want to tell you, too, that I have made too much money myself to admire a surprising capacity in that direction in anyone else."

"Don't think that I don't appreciate the significance of your wiping out a debt which you incurred unwittingly. I can see that you had to do it because a Wayne must carry his head high in his own eyes. But—" and here J. Y.'s eyes left his nephew's expressionless face and looked vaguely into the shadows of the room. His voice took a lower key. "With all your sacrifice to pride you have failed in pride. You have not been proud in the things that count."

J. Y.'s voice fell still lower. His words hung and dropped in the silence of the room like the far-away throb of a great bell on a still night. "Yesterday Clem was crying because you had not come to the house. I try to think, Alan, that it's because Clem is there that you have not come. If I could think that—" J. Y.'s eyes came slowly back to Alan's face. A dull red was

What did you say when you wished me to stop?"

"Whoa!"

The sergeant turned away and immediately put his squad in motion. After they had advanced a dozen yards or so he bawled out at the top of his lungs: "Squad, halt! Whoa, Fitzgerald!"

A German whose wife was ill at a Brooklyn hospital called the first evening she was there and inquired how she was getting along. He was told that she was improving.

Next day he called again, and was told she was still improving. This went on for some time, each day the report being that his wife was improving.

Finally one night when he called he was told that his wife was dead. Seeing the doctor, he went up to him and said, with a world of sarcasm in his voice: "Well, doctor, what did she die of—improvements?"

Doris, aged twelve years, was alone in the house when a visitor called to see her mother.

Doris smiled hospitably as she held the door open wide.

"Oh, Mrs. Browne," she said brightly, "mother will be so pleased. She hoped you'd come this afternoon!"

Mrs. Browne beamed at the warmth of the welcome.

"Is the so, dear?" she asked. "Then your mother is at home?"

"Oh, no," answered Doris just as brightly, "she's gone out shopping, and won't be home till late tonight!"

"Sure, a gas range is a fine thing," said the "green" maid to her gentleman friend. "We got one where I work. I lit it when I went there two weeks ago and it ain't out yet!"

Not Selfish.

He—Do you believe in every man for himself? She—Oh, no! I believe in every man for some woman.

Marrying for Money

More Fuel for the Fire of the Townsends' Domestic Infelicity.

Marian Townsend Makes a Sacrifice to Help Her Father. "Daddy," said Marian, as Jacob Townsend threw himself into a chair in the den over the store, "I have something to tell you." She sat down on the arm of his easy chair and slipped her arm around his neck. "Well," he said, "it is no school begins tomorrow. A cloud passed over Jacob's face. "But I am not going," she added quickly. "Not going?" Jacob turned to look at the girl's face in the girl's face. "No, dear Daddy, I am going to finish high school here. Dudley says you are hard pressed for money, and I would not think of making conditions harder than they are." Jacob took the girl's hand between his own and patted it as he said: "You know I sent back the automobile because I could not afford to make payments on it. I am chief reason for doing this was because I could not pay for the machine and send you to school, too. I am sure that if you could be happy since you and Ortrude cannot get along together, it breaks my heart that you are practically homeless. This den is my home." The girl tightened her arm around her father's neck. "We come here and have the nicest visits, and while I have you and Dudley I

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a stenographer, aged twenty-four years. I am in love with a grass widower thirty-one years old with nothing in this wide world except a four-year-old son. I would not worry me, as I dearly love children. But he drinks in spite of the fact that I am opposed to it and he knows it. He says he can let it alone when he goes to have a drink whenever it pleases him. I have only known him to be drunk about five times in the three years that I have known him. I would not quite let him try to get him up, but as it is a chance of being an old maid and being laughed at by my friends, what would you do if you were in my place?

DOWN-HEARTED. I would take the chance of being an old maid, laughed at by my friends, for you that he will not give up drink would make you very unhappy if you married him. An old maid's fate is far more fortunate than the fate of the woman who is unhappily married.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is it right for boys and girls to exchange rings? (2) If a boy gives a girl a place of jewelry other than a ring, it is considered a sign of an engagement? (3) Should a girl have a steady boy friend at the age of fifteen? (4) Is it the whole world or is it very low, would you encourage it by giving a answer? (5) Is it all right for a girl to write love letters to a boy she is not engaged to?

THE THREE TWINS.

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
In care of the Gazette.

(1) No. Boys sometimes give girls a bracelet or necklace for an engagement present instead of a ring. A gift of jewelry is not a declaration of a man's love, and should not be regarded as an engagement present unless he has previously proposed.

(2) She should not. (3) For the sake of your social position you should not give a dance in your home. It is against dancing. It seems hard to believe that a town of any size could as a whole be opposed to dancing.

(4) No. Dear Mrs. Thompson: Would you kindly tell us if girls thirteen and fourteen are too young to have boy friends from a leap year party or church dance? I have known some girls who have had boy friends from a leap year party or church dance.

THREE ANXIOUS GIRLS. It would be better to have boys take you home than to go home alone, but it would be best to have one of your parents call for you. Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have a few freckles on my nose. How can I rid myself of them? I have tried butter milk to no avail. (2) I would like to reduce. I exercise more than the average young lady and also dance, but still I am as stout as ever. I do not mean to infer that I am fat, but I weigh 140 pounds and am about five feet six inches tall. I think my weight is a little too much considering my height.

ANXIOUS FRIEND. (1) A simple lotion, good in some instances, is made from two ounces of lactic acid, one of glycerine and half an ounce of rosewater. This is applied morning and night and several times through the day, and is allowed to dry on. Should it seem to irritate the skin, an effect of acid may have, then it should be diluted by adding more glycerine, or applying cold cream afterward. Freckles cannot be permanently removed. (2) I don't think you weigh too much for your height. If you want to reduce, however, try going without potatoes and sweet and starchy foods, eat less fat, and don't drink water during your meals.

IRRITATION. The thumping should be done with the closed fist, about five times a second. Grandma instinctively thumped us a bit lower down on the spine when we choked on an excessively large chunk of her home-grown turkey. That is the place for bronchitis. A patient of ours who suffered much from flatulence (the bad premonitory anemia) discovered that moderate thumping of the back half way down the spine would relieve him a time. There is the spot to apply counter-irritation for troubles in the colon and the small intestine. Every woman knows that heat applied to the feet will relieve congestion of the pelvic organs. Cold applied to the back of the neck will stop a moderate nosebleed. Sometimes the "old woman" after all display her uncanny intuition. They have learned where to apply the mustard even if they don't know a nerve from a "bronchitis" tube.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. An imposture. I am a girl of twenty-five and have suddenly become afflicted with a burning, itching rash on hands, neck and elbows. My doctor tells me it is of nervous origin. It does recur whenever I become nervous or frightened. Is it an imposture to ask your advice? Answer—No one can ask a question of your courteous, brief way and impose upon this department by so doing. But frankly, it would be an imposture to attempt to give advice without examining you. Skin troubles, of all ailments, require inspection. My five months old baby sweats a great deal, even when but lightly covered or uncovered, especially about the head. Answer—You do not state what you feed him. If you are using condensed milk, malted milk or any sterilized food you had better commence feeding some clean raw milk. Sweating may mean a tendency to rickets.

Household Hints

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES. For Whooping Cough—Three pints rain water, five cents worth flaxseed, three lemons pared and seeded; boil all down to half quantity, strain, add two tablespoons goose grease, one stick licorice, three-fourths pound rock candy (dissolve these last three articles in a little hot water before adding to first part). Now add five cents worth glycerine. Shake thoroughly before using. Dose for children: One teaspoonful every two or three hours; for baby, one-half the above dose. Keep bottle in cool place. For Constipation—Take one teaspoonful of dry bran after each meal. This is a simple remedy and excellent.

Soda Mint—One teaspoon spirits of hartshorn, 1/2 teaspoon bicarbonate of soda, 1/4 teaspoon of mint water and six ounces soft water. Put half the water on the soda hot, but not boiling; when dissolved, add remainder of water cold, and the other ingredients. Froth and six cents worth to mix it in, which will determine the quantity of water to be used. Dose: One dessertspoonful after meals. For indigestion.

GOOD USES FOR VINEGAR. Before frying fish, place it in a pan of cold water to which has been added a little vinegar and let stand for twenty to thirty minutes. You will be surprised to see this takes the fish smell away when cooking. When boiling cabbage or onions, place a small vessel on stove with some vinegar in it and allow to boil. This will kill the odor of the cooking vegetables. If, before going out these cold days to hang up clothes, you will rub plenty of vinegar on your hands, you will not suffer nearly so much from their getting cold.

Before robbing bees, rub a generous amount of vinegar on your hands or gloves; you can handle the bees without being stung. Before washing anything of a dark color that is likely to fade, let it lie in a solution of vinegar and salt water; will prevent running of colors.

THE TABLE. Nut Strips—Two eggs, beaten light, one-half pound brown sugar, one cup English walnuts (broken). Sift twice five level tablespoons flour with small pinch of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Stir all together, spread thin on buttered pans and bake in moderate oven until light brown. Cut in strips when cold. These are delicious served with afternoon tea or hot chocolate.

One-half pound marshmallows; cut marshmallows into small pieces with shears. Cover with whipped cream. About one hour before serving add five cents worth of walnut meats chopped. Serve in sherbet cups.

Cream Puff Filling—One cup of milk, one cup sugar, one egg, three tablespoons flour, vanilla to flavor. Stir flour in a little of the milk; add the rest. Turn flour in and stir until the whole thickens. When both this and the puffs are cool, open the puffs with a sharp knife and fill with the cream. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Ice Cream Filling (for cakes)—Two cups granulated sugar, one cup sour cream; boil together and add two-thirds cup chopped nuts. Cook like fudge.

Fig Pinwheels—Mix together and rub through a sieve one pint flour, one tablespoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder. Into this rub two large tablespoons butter. Wet with scant one-half pint milk, roll into large squares about one-half inch thick, spread with a tablespoonful of butter, one cup sugar, one cup figs chopped fine. Roll up like jelly roll, cut into slices about three-fourths inch thick, lay in buttered pans. (Do not let slices touch each other.) Bake in quick oven about twelve minutes.

Fig Pudding—One cup molasses, one cup sugar, one cup figs chopped fine, two cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, steam three hours. Lemon sauce for same: Boil two cups hot water and one cup sugar together five minutes. Then add three heaping teaspoons cornstarch, wet with a little cold water; cook ten minutes. Then add grated rind and juice of one lemon; also one rounding teaspoon butter. Stir until butter is melted. Serve at once.

Drop Ginger Cookies—Two eggs, one cup New Orleans molasses, one cup sugar, two-thirds cup lard, one cup butter, one teaspoon ginger, cinnamon, one teaspoon soda, dissolved in milk, half teaspoon salt, four enough to make a soft dough. Add two teaspoons baking powder to flour. One tablespoon butter spread out quite thin will make a good-sized cookie. Sprinkle with sugar and bake quickly.

SIDE TALKS —By— RUTH CAMERON

EXERCISE FOR THE MIND. "I don't see any sense in arguing," someone said to me the other day, "because no one ever convinces anybody else."

Personally, I am a great believer in the value of arguing. It is to the mind what exercise is to the body. Nevertheless, I can understand her feelings, because there are so many arguments in which there isn't the slightest chance of anybody convincing anyone else.

Some Arguments Like Parallel Lines. It is perfectly useless for two people to argue when they have entirely different ideals and ideals are the touchstone by which the matter of argument must be tried. For instance, suppose two people are arguing as to the advisability of legislation which restricts certain personal rights of all for the sake of those who have not enough self-control and education to use those rights wisely. If one party to the argument has as his ideal the conduct of the betterment and advancement of the whole human race and the other party has no such ideal, what is the use of their arguing? All their premises must be different and no amount of argument can bring them to the same conclusion. Two parallel lines will never meet and two lines of argument will never meet if they start from different premises.

Beauty Lies Partly in the Eye That Looks Upon It. Again, there is no use arguing matters of opinion, as, for instance, whether a face is pretty or not. Beauty lies half in the eye that sees it and no amount of words can alter an opinion which is founded on feelings rather than facts.

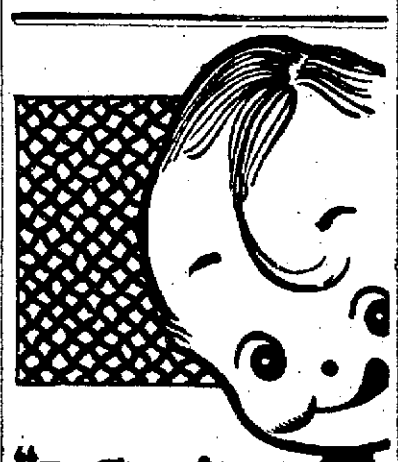

Arguments in which the two parties are using the terms which are the crux of the discussion in a different sense are absolutely futile. Many an argument will vanish into thin air when the terms are using.

Another utility in argument is to thin air if the arguers will stop and lose sight of the point at issue. In nine arguments out of ten, this happens, and neither can gain upon the other, because the point of attack is constantly shifted. Stop and restate what you are trying to prove every few minutes, if you want to get anywhere in an argument.

Some "Don'ts" For Arguers. Don't raise your voice or lose your temper in an argument. Don't forget what you are arguing about.

Define your terms before starting. When your opponent makes a statement that sounds well, but that you feel has a flaw in it, don't hurry to answer. Think it over and find the flaw. This will help you to detect sophistry everywhere.

Don't agree on matters of opinion. Don't use vague terms or vapor of into makeshift phrases like "You know what I mean." Try to express yourself concisely, definitely and in good English.

Don't argue for the sake of hearing yourself talk and proving how smart you are. Argue to defend a well-founded conviction and to thresh out the truth.

Conducted on these lines, an argument is an excellent thing for young or old, and will keep any mind from getting fat and inactive.

With My Letter Friends. Question—A letter friend asked me to tell "how a man—and there are thousands of him—can best live and keep a family of six or seven on nine dollars a week." I put the question up to my readers. Here is one pertinent answer.

Answer—If the six or seven comprise a few adults (sisters or aunts) they should help in the earning. If they are all children, a man with such a salary should not have so many children.

WOMAN POLITICAL ENEMY SAVED FROM SIBERIA CAMP

Boston, Feb. 24.—The Russian government is now order banishing to the unbearably cold extreme north of Siberia the famous political prisoner, Mrs. Katherine Breshkovsky, now in her 72nd year, has been retracted through the efforts of members of the Duma. Mrs. Breshkovsky, who many years ago visited America and is well known to American suffrage and political leaders, has been granted permission by the Minister of the Interior to reside in the city of Irkutsk, according to information received here today by Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, Editor in Chief of The Woman's Journal and Suffrage News, through a Russian friend in Europe. At the time of the order banishing Mrs. Breshkovsky to Yakutsk in the extreme north of Siberia, it was felt by her American friends that she would perish there, as even the young and hardy do not long withstand the rigors of the elements in that place. Recently, however, Mrs. Breshkovsky was granted permission to return to milder climate of Irkutsk. She was notified that the governor of the province would assign her a place of residence in one of the smaller cities. A few days ago the aged prisoner arrived in Irkutsk after journeying 3,400 miles, 2,000 by steamer and the last 1,400 (after the Lena river became a solid cake of ice), overland. Political prisoners of Mrs. Breshkovsky's grade are not permitted to remain in the capital city of any Siberian province, but this rule has been disregarded in her favor. In Irkutsk Mrs. Breshkovsky will have more comfort and can receive medical care. She is being blinded by cataracts over both eyes, though she is still able to read. Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Breshkovsky in care of The Governor of Irkutsk, Siberia, Asia, via Japan. Mrs. Breshkovsky was banished because of her expressed political beliefs concerning Russian governmental affairs.

PHILLIES' PITCHERS ALL IN FOLD AGAIN

Alexander Expects Another Record Year With Moran's Pennant Wins in the Nationals.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Philadelphia, Feb. 24.—Grover Alexander, the leading pitcher in the National league in 1915 and the mainstay of the Phillies in the box for several seasons past, will be back on the mound for the Phillies' team this year. Reports to the effect that Alexander's arm was "gone" and there was a chance of his having to give up the game for good were dispelled when he was received here from the big Nebraska. Alexander is now at his home in St. Paul, Neb., having just returned from a hunting trip, and says he is in fine fettle.

The letter reads: "Let me tell you I was glad to hear that Pat had signed for three years and also that the baseball war is over. I have just returned from a month's hunting. I did not go very far with the All-Star tourists at the close of last season, as I had a pretty hard season during the pennant race and felt that I needed a rest. All this talk about my arm being sore is all wrong. I was just tired from pitching through the season and I guess my arm had done about all it could do, but that is all. I will be on hand again when the bell rings in April and I expect to be just as good as ever. I took a month's trip into Texas for a hunt and certainly did have a fine time. I will be on hand to visit, not only for the good hunting but for the way the people of that place treat you, the family of Robert Huey making it just like home for us. Killifer and Duguey were there with me and we enjoyed it so much that we will go back next fall. I had planned to come to Philadelphia after the season, but the doctor said my health is poor and I have decided to stay here until it is time to go south with the Phillies. Hope the fans in old Philly are all well and have had a good winter." Pitched himself out.

Alexander did not do as well as was expected of him in the world's series, but he pitched great ball after the hard season he went through in landing the pennant for the Phillies. When Alex quit the All-Stars in the west it was reported that he had a sore arm and a sore side and several other ailments, but the truth is all told in his letter. The big fellow had pitched himself tired in his efforts to keep the Phillies at the top of the heap and was not at his best when he went into the world's series. At that, Alexander proved a wonderful pitcher by holding the hard-hitting Red Sox to three runs in two games.

With Alexander, Chalmers, Mayer, Dourand, McQuillan, Oeschger and Tincup, all right-handers who have been with the team; Rixey and Baumgartner, left-handers, and the two youngsters, Fortune and Rhoades, the Phillies' pitching staff looks plenty strong enough to defend the National league championship this year. Manager Moran has already declared that he will not bid for any of the Federal league stars, but there are one or two on the list of the Chicago Cubs whom Moran could use if they are placed on sale by Manager Thacker.

Needs a Good Southpaw. Moran would especially like to sign a good southpaw. Rixey showed something like his old form last season, but seems to be just a little short of major league caliber. Baumgartner is expected to come through this year and Manager Moran intends to give "Baum" his personal attention during the training season. What the young collegian needs most is experience. He went into a few games last year, but was used principally as a relief pitcher, and as most of the others are going south, he has had little opportunity to learn the lessons he needed to graduate him into major league class.

Both Baumgartner and Rixey will have to "show" this year, for the baseball market will be overcrowded with the Federal league out of the field, and every manager can be expected to cut loose the deadwood and build up his team as strong as possible. Moran has plenty of right-handers on his staff. What he needs to pick up is one good seasoned left-hander, and if there is one to be had the Phillies are sure to try for him.

MANY ENTRIES FOR CHICAGO ATHLETIC MEET

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Five hundred entries are expected in the annual indoor meet of the First Regiment Athletic club, which will open the local athletic club season, Feb. 25 at 7:30. The meet owes its popularity, according to Major George K. Hermon, of the Central A. A. U., to the fact that it is a handicap event and thus allows novices a chance to win.

GIBBONS WILL BOX JEFF SMITH AT ST. PAUL

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

St. Paul, Feb. 24.—An event of importance in middleweight circles is the bout on March 17, here between Jeff Smith, the fast New Jersey fighter, and Mike Gibbons. Smith has to his credit a clean knockout of Les Darcy, the Australian, though it took place some time before Darcy learned as much about the game as he knows now.

PEERLESS PIONEER BOWLERS WIN FROM MILLER'S REGULARS

Falling down in the last two events, the Miller Regulars lost in a match game last night to the Pioneer five, in the first frame the Regulars hit 834 pins. In the next two they fell down below the eight hundred mark. Howard went away with the high score honors when he rolled 211.

Miller's Team No. 1 went to Watertown today to roll in the tournament which is now in progress. The teams that went there last Sunday hit some fairly high scores and the team No. 1 expects to do better still.

Peerless Win. The Peerless five won from the Janesville Delivery Boys' team last night at the Miller alleys. H. Howard was the high man in this match with a score of 216 pins in the last event.

West Side Alleys. The Carpenters won from the painters in a poorly rolled game. Tonight the C. N. W. Roundhouse teams will roll on these alleys.

ILLINOIS FOOTBALL TEAM TAKING A WINTER DRILL

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 24.—Fifty candidates for Illinois' 1916 football team are taking part in the winter drill instituted by Coach Zuppke. It is the plan of the athletic authorities to teach rudiments of the gridiron game in a winter session of six weeks, so that when the regular autumn practice begins the members of the squad will have been well trained in such ground work as falling on the ball, blocking opponents, tackling, etc. Already students at Illinois are praised for their Starnamen, who is being groomed as understudy for Fogue.

THIRTY-FIVE BASEBALL PLAYERS OUT TO MAKE NINE AT INDIANA NOW

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 24.—Thirty-five ball players who hope to earn places on the Indiana university team, have reported to Coach Beebe for preliminary gymnasium work. It is believed that Beebe will have trouble turning out a winner, since the squad is considered weak in hitting and there is a dearth of good battery material reported. To overcome the first weakness, the coach has inaugurated stiff batting practice in the cage and is trying to teach the men to master the principles of fast base running. The only veteran battery man out so far is Catcher Schmidt, and other candidates for the backstop job are Wiley, Ewers, De Tar and Lang. Pitchers include Ridley, Stuart, Salim, Stroch, Smith, James, and Kunkle. Shively is expected to report later. Captain Card is the only veteran in the field.

THREE KNOCKOUTS AT BELOIT BOUTS

Clint Flynn Knocks Out Harris In Best Bout—Maurice Flynn Has Shade Over McCue.

Knockouts featured the boxing exhibition at Beloit last evening, for in three of the four scheduled bouts only one, the main event, went the limit number of rounds. Referee Duffy stopping the others when one of the boxers would be helpless on the floor. The Flynn brothers of Chicago, Maurice and Clint, were the headliners, and both won their bouts.

In the main event Maurice Flynn graduated successfully into the light-weight class. Up until the tenth it was even, but Flynn was entitled to a shade when he rocked the Racine lightweight's head with his lightning left jab in the last round while McCue was unable to reach the Chicago fighter. Flynn has a wholesome respect for McCue's punch, and therefore kept his jaw well covered with his right and confined his punching to a short left jab that would catch McCue as he came out of his shell in rushing. It was a clever exhibition with plenty of good boxing, but fell short of the semi-windup for action.

The bout between Clint Flynn and Eddie Harris of Milwaukee was the real bout of the evening. For six rounds these two featherweights stood up and exchanged heavy punches, fought like tigers until in the sixth round, when Flynn caught Harris on the jaw with a left swing that sent the Milwaukee boy to the canvas. The second knockdown Duffy stopped the fight. Clint Flynn showed an unusual amount of gameness, for he took the best blows that Harris could send his way without flinching and when his time came had the punch sopped up. Janesville fans would like to see Flynn matched with Young Scottle.

Ted Russell of Delavan gave Kid Boeck of Rockford a right on the chin in the second round of the Rockford boxer was posing, and registered his second knockout at Beloit. Chappie McFarland, Chicago, was knocked out by Battling Bugger of Beloit in the fifth round in the open preliminary.

RED WING RUNS WILD WITH FOND DU LAC CO. E

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Red Wing, Minn., Feb. 24.—Company L of Red Wing easily defeated Company E of Fond du Lac in their series of games here, the first game being won by Red Wing by the score of 48 to 0. The game was played under amateur rules and the eastern players were handicapped by frequent fouling.

On December 29th the Lakota Cardinals beat Red Wing by the score of 21 to 26 at Red Wing, and lost the following night 40 to 20. Offers were made to bring Red Wing here for two games, but the Minnesota champs showed no desire to play here, as was agreed.

WASEDA, JAPAN NINE WILL PLAY ILLINOIS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 24.—A game between the baseball team representing Waseda university of Japan and the University of Illinois is being practically arranged. The Waseda players, on their tour of the United States next spring, it is expected will stop for a game here May 23.

EVANSVILLE NEXT FOR THE J. H. S. FIVE

High School Basketball Team Play Evansville Highs Here Tomorrow Night—Church Teams Play.

Tomorrow night the Janesville high school basketball squad will have another chance to see if their losing streak is still going to follow them. They will play a game with the Evansville high. Although they expect to win the contest, Coach Kech has not been sleeping and every night this week he has sent the squad through some stiff drills. Little has been heard of Evansville's strength, only that they won from the Milton high by a one-sided score of about fifty to five. This game was played on their home floor.

The local squad will go into the game tomorrow night with a determination to win and as only two more games remain to be played, they will left jab in their power to finish the season with a clean slate. On a week from tomorrow night a return game will be played with the University Highs and the week after they will go to the Whitewater tournament.

As a preliminary game to the high school contest the St. Patrick's and St. Mary's church teams will clash. These two teams are the leaders in the league and will go far towards determining the winner of the cup. This game will start at six-forty-five and the high school contest immediately after.

Following is the record for the J. H. S. five for this season:
J. H. S. 18; Delavan, 12.
J. H. S. 30; Jefferson, 19.
J. H. S. 31; Aluma, 11.
J. H. S. 15; Edgerton, 35.
J. H. S. 10; Madison, 15.
J. H. S. 26; Waukesha, 27.
J. H. S. 14; Beloit, 15.
J. H. S. 17; Highland Center, 19.
J. H. S. 10; Beloit, 11.
J. H. S. 12; Edgerton, 16.
J. H. S. 25; University Highs, 4.
J. H. S. 7; Evansville, 7.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

Illinois track enthusiasts are watching the work of Spink, a middle distance runner, with a deal of interest. He is eligible for the varsity team this year and gives promise of making a wonderful name for himself. Two years ago in his senior year in high school he romped away with the University of Michigan interscholastic half mile in one minute and fifty-six seconds, but could do no better than two minutes and five seconds last year.

"Here is the shortest sporting poem ever written," dispatches a bystander, who includes this masterpiece:

All-star picks?
Nix—Nix
This is by no means the record. The brevity mark for all time was set last summer by a keen observer, who ended these imperishable lines just after Cobb had gone to bat twenty-six times without a hit:
Ty.

Pitcher Erickson, who was signed by the Detroit Tigers and who was formerly with the Brooklyn Feds, was with the property of the New York Giants. He was sent to the Rochester club of the International league by the Giants and was drafted from there by the Browns last

REBEL OAKES FOR SALE; WHO'LL BUY?

Rebel Oakes.

Rebel Oakes, who managed the Pittsburgh Federal last year, is for sale cheap by Ed Gwinmer, owner of the Pittsburgh team. During the 1915 season, played rattling good ball, showed a lot of speed and pep, and has several years of high-class playing still in his composition.

fall. The St. Louis club did not make a fight for him this spring because he has a bad knee that is liable to give him trouble.

James McGill, owner of the Indianapolis A. A. club, did not have to wreck his bank roll when he purchased Jim Kelly, the catcher, and two other players from the Pittsburgh Federals. McGill said he paid $100 each for the trio. After the sale he discovered that Barney Dreyfus, Pirates' owner, and not Ed Gwinmer, Pittsburgh Federal magnate, owned Kelly. Now Dreyfus is trying to stick McGill for a regular major league price for Kelly.

Bill Killifer, mainstay of the Philadelphia Nationals, is probably out of the game for the 1916 season. Bill, who has been spending the winter in Los Angeles trying to have his torn muscles brought into shape, has been called east by the Phil club and is now in New York, with a noted physician giving daily treatments to the catcher. Efforts have been made to keep secret the visit of Killifer to the east, but when Bill was asked direct he opened up and admitted that the condition of his arm was bad, that the injury received when he threw a ball to nab a runner at Brooklyn on Labor day was bothering him a great deal, and that it was possible he would not play this year. The loss of Killifer would be a tough blow to Moran. Burns would be promoted to first string catcher, and while he is good he does not possess the throwing ability, the hitting power, the speed or the keen judgment of the "reindeer."

There is a big squabble on the coast as to the rightful possessors of the Pacific coast amateur baseball championship. The Fullerton nine paved the way for the argument by advertising themselves as the champions. This claim is disputed by the San Pedro Merchants. Manager Hense of the San Pedros argues as follows: "The White Autos, of Cleveland, undisputed champions of the east, came out to the Pacific coast and won from the Tacoma team on the exposition grounds at San Francisco. The Autos then came south and were beaten two straight games by the San Pedros. Now where do the Fullertons get off in offering to dictate terms to the San Pedro Merchants?"

Ed Rueback, the former Brooklyn pitcher, who wound up the season with the Newark Fed team, will be with the Pittsburgh team the coming season. Barney Dreyfus has made arrangements for the transfer of Rueback to the Pirates. While a veteran, the former Cub star still is one of the former pitchers in the game. In fact, he is believed to be a better pitcher these days than he was several years ago, when his control was very poor.

BRAZIL ALLOWS DIVORCE UNDER THEIR NEW LAWS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 24.—Divorce, hitherto prohibited, has been driven entering wedge into the laws in Brazil. In the new Civil Code, a more than six years' work of the Federal Congress commission and signed by President Wenceslau Braz last week, absolute divorce is permitted by the unhappily married—but they cannot marry again.

CROWNHART TO CALL COMMITTEE MEETING

Progressive Committee in Charge of La Follette Campaign to Meet at Madison Next Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 24.—Charles H. Crownhart announced today that the committee which will have charge of the arrangement of the La Follette presidential campaign in this state will hold a meeting in Madison some time next week. This committee was selected at the progressive republican conference which met here Tuesday. Under the plans the committee will arrange for opening a bureau and mailing out literature and the sending out of speakers in every section of the state. Senator La Follette says that as soon as the important pieces of legislation are out of the way he will return to Wisconsin for a continuance of his speaking campaign. His formal announcement as a presidential candidate has been the cause of a general feeling of enthusiasm among the La Follette men here.

The committee which will meet here next week is composed of one man from each congressional district as follows: First, Frank Smart, Waukegan; Second, Dr. A. E. Hartwig, Westtown; Third, Ernest N. Warner, Madison; Fourth, John G. Kleczka, Milwaukee; Fifth, Walter D. Corrihan, Milwaukee; Sixth, C. H. Perry, Oshkosh; Seventh, W. B. Naylor, De Mah; Eighth, George Leicht, Wausau; Ninth, Elmer S. Hill, Green Bay; Tenth, James Allison, Buffalo county; Eleventh, G. M. Sheldon, Tomahawk.

SOUTHERN CONGRESSMEN TO FIGHT COTTON GAMBLERS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Washington, Feb. 24.—Southern congressmen today were drafting a declaration of war on cotton gamblers. An indignation meeting of House members from the cotton states will be held tonight at the capitol to discuss the alleged "conspiracy of cotton exchanges to depress the price of cotton." Representative Heflin of Alabama will preside at tonight's meeting. The call was joined by Representatives Chandler of Mississippi and Jacobway of Arkansas. Measures to regulate cotton exchanges will be discussed. Resolutions of Representative Heflin for congressional investigation of alleged manipulation of cotton markets will also be urged. Although government reports showed that the cotton acreage and visible supply was being reduced, the cotton gamblers deliberately forced down the price of cotton, declared Representative Heflin today. That the cotton gamblers are in control of the market, although England's reserve supply is known to be almost at bedrock, and Germany's cut off, with more than 2,000,000 bales used in manufacturing war supplies since the war began, is asserted by Representative Heflin.

BOSTON TAKES THE LEAD AS A MARKET FOR WOOL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Boston, Feb. 24.—All previous records for the amount of wool handled in this country were broken in 1915, according to the textile records just compiled here and when the final statistics become available it probably will be shown that Boston has superseded London as the world's largest single wool market. London seldom sells more than a million bales annually, or not much in excess of 250,000,000 pounds, and the corrected figures for 1915 will probably disclose a similar amount. Imports to the United States based upon quantities aggregated 340,510,023 pounds, and though the final government report statistics may modify this somewhat, they are a close approximation. Added to the domestic clip for the season they give a grand total of more than 600,000,000 pounds. The figures demonstrating Boston's importance as a wool market are based upon statistics of receipts compiled by the Boston Chamber of Commerce. The total figure for Boston is 393,110,394 pounds, which represents Boston's wool sales for the year. This is in excess of the quantity of wool handled in any other city.

MAY ANNUL MARRIAGE IF PARTY CONCEALED PRESENCE OF DISEASE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Feb. 24.—The right of the courts to annul marriages on the ground that the existence of venereal disease had been concealed is brought to public attention by the state board of health in its quarterly bulletin this week. The courts have held in a number of cases that the marriage of a person suffering from a venereal disease might be annulled at the instance of the other party to the marriage when the existence of the disease had been concealed. The supreme court of New York has carried this legal principle one step further holding that a marriage might be annulled because one party concealed from the other the fact that he was suffering from tuberculosis. The court took into account the possible serious consequence of such a marriage to the wife, to the children if any there should be, and to the community. The legal basis of the decision was the fraud of the defendant in concealing and misrepresenting the condition of his health.

Forty Years Ago

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Feb. 24, 1876.—No ice in the river below the dam, and not a great deal above. The total amount of real estate transfers for the week ending Feb. 21st was $22,501.25.

Yesterday and today eggs were retailing at 15¢ per dozen. Hens should go on a strike at this price at this season of the year.

Royal Wood has purchased a lot 28x110 feet, off the west side of the Hyatt house ruins, and in a few days will begin the erection of a two story brick building, which will be used as a carriage repository.

The oldest sign in the city is now in possession of Thomas Lappin. It was made in the spring of 1840 and reads "Lappin" and was placed over the door of his store. It is now safely stored away, and will be kept as a relic of olden times.

According to Signs.
"Little Johnnie is rather cross this morning," said the doctor, "but then that is a good sign. It shows that he is convalescing."

"According to that," said Johnnie's mother, "my husband must be recovering from a severe illness. There's not a living with that man."—Exchange.

NITRE CAKE, WASTE PRODUCT USED IN WOOLEN INDUSTRY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
London, Feb. 24.—Nitric cake, a waste material produced in enormous quantities in the manufacture of nitric acid, has been found to be a useful product in the woolen industry and can be used as a substitute for sulphuric acid or any mineral acid in chemical processes where acidity is required. But it is not suitable in solutions stronger than 15 per cent, and thus can not be used in the dye stuffs industry or in the manufacture of explosives.

OPPORTUNITIES.

Opportunities are very sensitive things. If you slight them on their first visit you seldom see them again.—Ruskin.

ACTION IS NATURAL.

"Auto-intoxication" is the name given by medical authorities when a mass of undigested food remains in the intestines and poisons the system. P. S. Mehan, Hancock, Mich., writes: "I have given Foley Cathartic Tablets a thorough trial and can positively state that they are the best laxative I have ever used. Their action is natural, no pain or griping, and they clean the system in fine shape." Stout persons say the buoyant, free feeling they bring is a blessing.—W. T. Sherer.
